Deaf and Hard of Hearing Services

Captioning Services for Hard of Hearing Individuals who use English:
These services are often referred to as CART (Communication Access Real-Time Translation). This is for people who have a hearing loss but use English as a means of communication. There are local providers and out of state agencies that provide this service. Most local providers are from Southeastern Wisconsin but there are some who can provide remote captioning as well to save some costs. Out of state agencies typically only provide remote captioning. A list of CART individual providers and agencies can be found at https://www.dhs.wisconsin.gov/odhh/cartlisting.htm. Some agencies are able to provide on-demand captions as well but you would have to ask the provider if they have that capability.
